Upcoming exhibition:

Busman's Holiday: photographs taken while on holiday

This exhibition presents a diverse range of projects by artists on holiday but unable to stop photographing: from Steven Jones documenting his trips in a fun and striking way, to Kate Goodwin collecting and reinterpreting rubbish found on the beach; from Caroline Fraser's abstract shots of sand and water, to Anita Chandra's picture-perfect shots that you might not expect a holiday-goer to persevere with obtaining. The exhibition explores the role of the other and observer while abroad, and also the shifts in identity we - perhaps wrongly - assume take place between being at work and away.
